Royal Commissions On Inquiry Work To Be Named Soon

Ottawa—Two and possibly three royal commissions, and at least one committee of the House of Commons will be getting down to work soon, according to forecasts in the speech from the throne and the announced intentions of the government.

The difficulty in obtaining qualified men, is a position to develop the necessary time has delayed appointing the royal commissions to investigate penitentiaries. A committee already has been appointed to investigate the textile industry, and the throne speech indicated an inquiry would be made into complaints of the "monopolistic control of the importation and distribution of automobile oil."

A special committee of the house of commons will study conditions under which radio broadcasting is carried on in Canada and possibly recommend a new set-up to replace or supplement the present commission.

That from the oral inquiry will take has not been decided, and probably has not yet been definitely decided. It is possible that the inquiry would be by convention and fans for certain districts, dealt with the same way as a committee would be the further inquiry will be either by royal commission or parliamentary committee.

Wants Russia As Ally

French And Soviet Officials Meet To Co-Operation

Paris—The British ambassador, the youngest marshal of the Soviet army, met France's general staff to discuss the measures of military co-operation between the two nations in the face of the "menace" of Nazi Germany.

France hoped to get Russia, her military ally, in a position to fight effectively.

With their bilateral mutual defense pact, the two countries had ratified by the chamber of deputies the general staffs of the two nations. The work of the committee, which was headed by Reichswehr officer's army attacks either.

The committee, which was headed by Reichswehr officer's army attacks either, was to study the possibility of a loan of $54,000,000 in credits to enable the Soviet to repair her western frontier railroads and highways.

It was thought the death toll would be increased with words from the mountain villages to which communications were disrupted.

Restoring Fertility To Iraq

Area In Babylon Was Once Granary
Of The World

Some of the fertility which in the days of olden Babylon was said to be in Iraq is now known as the granary of the world. It is the Iraq of the Iraqis, a 1,000,000 Iraqis, this project has been inaugurated.

The barrage is to dam the Tigris River 100 miles south of Baghdad, thus creating a large reservoir. The thing irrigating channels that are to turn a vast area of Iraq into fields of wheat, maize, and cotton.

The barrage is being built by the Iraq Government by a firm of London engineers with whom it has entered into a long-term contract. It is expected to be completed in three years.

It is one of the most important irrigation projects in the world, and it is the first of its kind in the world.
